HOTEL FOR PENINSULA

Plan For a Summer
Hostelry.

NOTHING DEFINITE YET

Projectors Believe That Public Would
Patronize a Good House
There.

There is a new hotel project in the wind which will prove of inestimable benefit to Honolulu if the plans of the projectors mature. It is proposed to erect a fine summer hotel on the Peninsula below Pearl City along the shore of the lagoon or on the river which will be in all respects as commodious and high-class as the best hotels at the resorts along the California coast.

No definite plans or specifications have been put together as yet nor has the property site been selected. It is the contention that with the available steam railway service between Honolulu and Pearl City, the latter connecting directly with the Peninsula, that a resort of the first-class would find ready patronage from Honolulu as well as tourists.

The increasing number of residents on the Peninsula has been the cause of the erection of many pretty cottages and permanent residences, and the grounds have been redeemed from barren wastes into beautiful garden spots. Landscape gardening has proven highly successful on the long spit of land and this in itself has been an incentive in selecting the Peninsula as a desirable location for such a hostelry.

The nearness of the Peninsula to the city is much in its favor. After business hours the train which leaves at 5:15 would give ample opportunity for staying overnight and returning the next morning in time for the opening of business. There are several hundred acres available on the main peninsula and it is highly probable that the location will be selected thereon leaving the United States naval department free to use the opposite shore for its purposes.

It is planned also to run an electric plant for the supplying of light and also power for a proposed electric railway to run from the hills back of Pearl City to all points along the Peninsula. This is carried out, another ice-making plant will probably be added to the list of producers for Honolulu.

Cool breezes continually blow over the peninsula. Fresh air in abundance can always be had. The lagoon offers many opportunities for the enjoyment of yachting, rowing and bathing. At the present rate the Peninsula will have a populous colony within the next twelve months. A hotel in the midst of such a suburb, so the promoters say, would prove a drawing attraction second to none on the Islands.

Building Applications.
